

MISSISSIPPI STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The Office of Preventive Health and Health Equity (OPHHE) is accepting applications for two Nurse III positions. The Preventive Health Nurses will promote population health by leading clinical approaches for community-based health-behavior change programs from planning to evaluation for diverse populations in a variety of settings within their assigned public health region. Duties performed will include monitoring health trends and identifying health risk factors unique to specific communities.

Nurses will be responsible for providing direct preventative clinical services, assessing the health status of individuals, families, and populations, and providing nurse case management and health education. Utilizing a health systems approach to community health, Nurses will serve as a resource for evidence-based, population-focused practice, to educate individuals, families, communities, and members of the health care team about the principles of disease prevention and health promotion.

One Nurse III position is located in Lee County, Tupelo, MS. The other Nurse III position is located in Forrest County, Hattiesburg, MS.
